

A WORKSHOP FOR RESOURCE PARENTS CARING FOR CHILDREN WHO HAVE EXPERIENCED TRAUMA

VIA ZOOM

September 13 -
November 1, 2024
9:00 - 11:00 am
THURSDAYS

Facilitated by peer Resource Parents
Diane Lanni and Erin McGlynn

What's a Resource Parent?

A caregiver raising a child that is not their biological child (i.e. kin, foster parent, adoptive parent, legal guardian)

Why is the RPC important?

Because caring for children who have experienced trauma is hard! It is also very rewarding and with the right knowledge and tools to address the impact of trauma, caregivers can help their children build resilience and thrive in all aspects of life.

How do the classes work?

The Resource Parent Curriculum is a 16 hour course broken up into 8 weekly two hour sessions that cover trauma-informed parenting through a combination of curriculum-based content and activities, as well as group discussion.

Who can sign up?

The Resource Parent Curriculum is designed for families that currently have a child in their care. After enrolling, we will reach out to conduct a brief phone screening to answer your questions and to make sure this is the right class for your family.

If you're interested in an RPC group but these dates don't work for you, feel free to sign up and leave your availability for later groups. For more questions, please email: Molly.hanson@umassmed.edu or call (774) 441-8813 (voice message)
